

St. Helena Hospital brings physicians to Hidden Valley, Middletown and Cobb

St. Helena and Redbud are bringing more physicians and medical services to south Lake County communities with the opening of the new Hidden Valley Medical Services and Hidden Valley Medical Specialists offices.

The offices are slated to open in August and will serve residents of Hidden Valley, Middletown, Cobb and other south Lake County communities.

Hidden Valley Medical Services will provide primary care physicians—family practice, internists and OB/GYNs—as well as laboratory and X-ray services.

Hidden Valley Medical Specialists will provide space for medical and surgical sub-specialists from both Redbud and St. Helena.

All services will be located in the same 4,500 square-foot facility and are part of the Coyote Valley Plaza development. The plaza is located between Hardester's Market and the Coyote Valley Elementary School, at 18900 Coyote Valley Road.

“Our two hospitals are pleased to work with the local communities to bring more healthcare services to this growing area,” says President & CEO JoAline Olson.

The hospitals will provide residents with more information such as operating hours, medical services available and participating physicians in the next few weeks.
